

Our state of New Jersey has enacted its own very succesful "do not call" program. It is my understanding that President Bush wants less federal government involvement in the private sector. True this is a state govenment program, however the citizenary is satisfied with our program. I ask you not to undo something that works in our best interest.

Why is it the federal government wants to be involved were it should not be. This is an individual state matter and the state allows businesses to operate under their guidelines.

For those of you who are not home much, do not know the inconvienece caused by and brashness of the telemarketer. They call from early morning to late evening all day long. It is not enjoyable.
